W. P. WALTON.

PARKVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—The stove and saw mill of Westerfield & Rawlings, 3 miles south of this place, was burned Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, also several thousand staves and a lot of lumber. The fire is supposed to have originated in a cook room. There was no insurance and the loss falls heavily on these gentlemen and is a heavy blow on many laborers who depend on this mill for work to make their support. They have not decided whether they will rebuild or not.

—Miss Loris E. Phillips died at the home of Mrs. Margaret Kirkland on the North Rolling Fork Monday morning. She was born in Amherst county, Virginia, in the year 1799 and moved to Garrard county when quite small. She joined the Christian church and was immersed by Raccoon John Smith, then moved to this county where she lived until her death. She has many relatives in your county and in Garrard. She was buried Tuesday afternoon, after a funeral discourse by Eld. Jno. Brewer.

—Squire G. S. Caldwell died at his home near Mitchellburg Monday morning at 10 o'clock. He has been a magistrate in this end of the county for many years, was a grand son of Gov. Slaughter, deceased, and brother of Mr. W. L. Caldwell and Rev. R. H. Caldwell, of this county. He was 77 years old, a man of much influence, a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and noted for his many christian virtues. He leaves several children to mourn over their irreparable loss, among them Mrs. Cpt. Sam Boone and Mrs. W. C. Grinstead, wife of Prof. Grinstead. The burial was at Perryville Tuesday afternoon.

Mean Business Rivalry.

[To the Editor of the Interior Journal.]
ST. MARY'S SAW MILLS, HOLLY GAP, May 12th, 1885.—We take this opportunity to thank you for your kind wishes expressed in an editorial notice a few weeks ago in your valuable paper and also to those other estimable gentlemen of Stanford and elsewhere, who have helped us for our welfare in the saw mill business. We commenced on the top of the knobs some two months ago when you named us two enterprising Englishmen who were trying to obtain an honest living in the "Mill Business." You were correct, Mr. Editor, and we thank you most cordially for doing so, but we regret to have it to say that damaging and libelous reports, emanating from people in rival mills, and others concerned in lumber traffic up in these parts, as to our personal character, and the depreciation of our lumber and shingles, trying their level best to prevent them in and around Stanford to buy from us by contemptible means, our men and hauling, logging, &c., stopped from working for us, in fact completely boycotted in every way. We are sorry to have been the cause of annoyance and regret that we cannot as we wish to, work harmoniously with these people. We employ no agents nor men traveling to sell for us, that business we do directly for ourselves, Yours, &c., WM. J. FOOTE, GEO. WHEELER

Two ladies applied to the Southern Baptist Convention, now in session at Augusta, Ga., for admission as lay delegates, and were refused, on the ground that the day has not arrived for that. When will it arrive? Women support themselves in every branch of industry. They write well for the press and can go to the case and put in type the matter they have written; they write short-hand and transcribe their notes on the type writer; they are capable telegraph operators; they are the best teachers our young people have; they are merchants and clerks, mechanics and sewing girls; they support themselves, their children, and many, many times their drunken, worthless husbands. They are the steadfast, earnest friends and supporters of the church; its strongest pillars, its most beautiful columns. They were first at the Cross and last at the Grave. Will the Southern Baptist Convention tell us when our mothers, our wives, our sisters, our daughters will have reached that sublimated state which will justify their admission into the councils of an institution which they have done more, and are doing more, to sustain than all the other human beings on earth? It would be interesting to know when this premillennial movement in behalf of women is to begin.—[Louisville Times.]

—It is announced that the illustrations alone in Harper's, during the past year, cost over eighty thousand dollars.

CURE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles find at once the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

MT. SALEM, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Gen. Frank Wolford, wife and afflicted daughter, Minnie, of Columbia, are now on a visit to friends and relatives in Liberty and surrounding country.

—T. C. Jasper sold to Walker Lyons one fine pair of three-year-old work mules for $300; also 11 two-year-old heifers to John Johnson, of Boyle county, to be delivered the 1st of July at $4 cents. David Elliott sold to Emmett McCormack 11 head common cattle at $3.45.

—On a hurried trip we made to Liberty on Monday we found business apparently dull. But few people were in town. Bob Pierce and family were on a visit to Russell county. Col. Silas Adams was in a feeble state of health and the town seemed somewhat lonesome.

—Mrs. Belle Floyd has been on the sick list for some time. Mrs. Green Stapp, of Carpenter's creek, is very low. Mrs. Jeff Short, of the same vicinity, is suffering excruciating pains from a malady the seat of which is in the knee, though its particular nature has not yet been determined.

—Three frosts in succession have choked the beans and other garden stuffs when not covered up. Serious apprehensions have been felt in regard to the fruit, but from examinations at this writing no damage has yet been discovered. There has been a thaw in the river, but no accidents have happened from drifted ice as far as we have learned.

—C. E. Simpson, Uncle John Wesley and several others have lost a number of fine milk cows from some unknown ailment lately. It seems to attack them soon after calving when seemingly doing well and runs its course in a few hours, always terminating fatally. Dr. Wesley made a post mortem examination of the one lost by his father, but found nothing wrong. Perhaps some reader of the JOURNAL can enlighten the people of Middleburg upon the nature of the disease and its remedy.

We wish we could deliver over the line and vote for our friend, W. E. Grubbs, of Boyle, after reading the following in the Advocate: "I regret very much the necessity for such a law, but with our crowded penitentiary—over one half of whose inmates are there for stealing less in value than $50, and whose prosecutions cost the State annually over $300,000, to say nothing of the vast expense this class are to the county and State after conviction—I am firmly convinced that the whipping-post is the only economical solution for our present crowded penitentiary, and if it becomes a law at the next session of the Legislature, will not only save to the tax payers of the State an enormous expense, but its adoption will enable the State to pay off its present indebtedness without an additional per cent. on our present taxes."

—A few days since at the hospitable residence of Maj. G. W. Sweeney we met the veteran Gen. Frank Wolford. We were astonished to find him, considering his age and the hardships in times past he has gone through, so well preserved. Time appears to have dealt lightly with him. In regard to public men and measures he did not seem inclined to be drawn out, but we made no special effort in that direction. For some time, however, he and the Major gave us entertaining reminiscences of fashions, scenes, habits and the people in the early days of Casey county, how the best men in the country in those days dressed in ring, streaked and striped chestnut oak bark died jeans and fringed hunting shirts and linen breeches; how the finest girls went to meetings and parties barefooted carrying their shoes and stockings in their hands to prevent wear and tear, and immediately before reaching their destination went aside and put them on. They also related many amusing anecdotes, encounters of the old citizens between the days of the pistol and bowie knife. In comparing the fashions and people of those days when trickery and corruption in high life was the exception and not the rule, it was not very favorable to those of the present day.

—While enjoying the hospitality of Dr. I. C. Dye, of Middleburg, on Tuesday morning he showed me a skull and detailed to me its history as far as known. It was that of a female and finely formed. It had a plain bullet hole square through the temple. The bone was fractured where the bullet came out. It was first found by some person about 5 years ago in the hills between Carpenter's and Brush Creeks. This person took it home and kept it some time, but for the sake of his wife who always felt bad with such a ghastly spectacle always at hand, he took it and concealed it in a thicket. Here it was found by some hunter and it fell into the hands of an Irishman who made professional use of it, he having some pretensions to phrenology. The Irishman becoming tired of it threw it into the river. After remaining there some time it was seized out by some fisherman. It then came into the possession of Dr. Dye. Is it not significant that this horrid object will not remain hidden and like the ghost of Bancho will not show? Does it not suggest that somebody—some official or citizen of Casey county—has neglected his duty in never investigating the matter?

JUST AS GOOD.

Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for Coughs and Colds equal in merit and every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko Cough and Lung Syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are liable to be greatly deceived. Prices, 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

THE BROTHERS.

An Entertaining and Instructive Serial Story,

Written Expressly for the Interior Journal.

BY MISS MILDRED LEWIS.

But if ever a heart needed to be brave and hopeful Henry's did, as day by day he followed the plow and came home at night weary of mind and body to take up his studies.

Edward studied also, sitting quietly by his brother's side, until the flaxen head would drop on Henry's knee and he would sleep.

"Go to bed early to night, brother, you look tired," Henry would sometimes say when the chair was drawn up close to his.

"I would rather sit with you if you will let me."

"Of what are you thinking when you sit and look so long into the fire?"

"Of what a great man you will be some day, and how people will love you."

"People don't always love the great," said Henry smiling.

"But they will love you," said the little boy, "and you will be happy."

It may have been the delicate constitution or the different disposition or the uncommon development in the older, but there seemed to be a great difference in the ages of these boys.

There is nothing sadder than to see youth cheated out of its legitimate right to youthful pleasure, by oppression or sorrow, to have every youthful feeling or yearning crushed out or repressed by abuse. But to see him suddenly converted into a man by a load of responsibilities from which he does not shrink, or a ferid aim is altogether a different thing. It gives to the brow a sterner look; a deeper significance to the speech; to the presence something which challenges our admiration and respect.

The days passed, leaving behind them the fruition which days well spent will give.

After doing his work at the house, Edward would go to the field where Henry was and follow him up and down until quite exhausted. While they rested in the shade Henry would read or recite to him, but here their tastes differed as widely as their natures.

Henry's eyes would brighten and his nostrils quiver over some fine passages from Homer, Shakespeare or Milton, while Edward liked best some sweet selection from Keats or Burns. Jove's majestic nod and speech, the crash of Mars' armor, the war, rage and envy, exceedingly human qualities of Homer's gods, awe, wearied and disgusted him. Shakespeare's fine thoughts and strong human passion seemed far removed from his own heart. "The little Valcous Fountain" as Mr. Carlyle calls Burns was a friend and refreshed his soul.

After months and years of labor and economy, enough had been saved to pay Edward's tuition at the male school in Danville and Henry, who had read law for a long time without a teacher began to look for the best means of getting a finishing or polishing, either under the management of some capable man, or a school if possible.

He was told that a couple of lawyers had charge of a school in Lexington, not a law school in the general acceptance of the term, just a modest way of making a genteel living, at the same time offering real advantages to young men who laid the means or inclination to patronize Harvard, the University of Virginia, or any other expensive institution. And leaving him to arrange it to his satisfaction let us take a look at some of their neighbors.

CHAPTER III.

THE RECLUSE.

"He looks as he were stained With a fighting hat he own gold; Not a fending hat he own kindred—nor familiar."—Milton.

There can scarcely be found anywhere a prettier country than that which surrounds Danville. Beautifully undulating, dotted with handsome country residences, surrounded by stately oaks; large farms divided by well-kept hedge rows or fences; purring streams, whose course the tender willow marks. Here and there a short lane surprises you, edged with bushy elms, a suggestiveness of nice walks and trying places. Level, splendidly kept, pikes traversing in every direction; gleaming white through the green country. Everywhere an air of thrift and love of the beautiful. The most fastidious taste must be pleased; a suitable surrounding for an ambitious and handsome little city.

A short distance across the country from the "gabled cottage" stood a large, gray, stone house, whose windows were always closed and by its grim and selfish aspect it reminded you of some ogre castle.

'Twas the home of an old man by the name of Cligney, a retired physician, who lived alone in the great house or nearly alone, an old woman servant, whom he had brought there with him many years before, a negro boy who attended to his horse and garden and carried the neighbors' exaggerated accounts of the Dr.'s eccentricities, were the only members of his family.

Why he had bought such a large house and so nicely furnished just to shut himself up in was something people couldn't understand. The public had never been able to satisfy its curiosity; the parlor furniture might be rep, brocade or hair for all they knew; they wondered if he affected pictures or statuary and what it all meant anyway.

Mose, the negro boy, was not able to inform them on this point. The rooms, he declared, were never entered excepting one where the Dr. slept and took his meals, and the kitchen. Stephens, the woman, had a room up stairs over the kitchen, the other parts of the house were always locked.

"Yes," he told them, "the doctor was pretty much like other men in some things, he ate at regular times, read and wrote a good deal and was pretty generally busy attending to his business; he slept some too. He didn't talk much, neither did Stephens, 'twas a dull place for a colored gentleman to live, but the doctor paid him regularly and well."

"He's a man with thought; I hear him muttering to himself and he looks at me sometimes so," twisting his face into a hideous leer, "after which I allers makes a cross mark and says my prayers. When I see him feeling on top a gate post or about a tree I never goes near 'em for three days. I don't want no spell on me."

What was to become of the old man's money when he was dead? was a question which the public couldn't decide, neither could it betray or encourage him to talk about his own affairs.

The beggar had the door shut coldly in his face, if you can call a door shut which was never opened more than half an inch, when a pair of cold blue eyes looked out and a hard voice bade them to take themselves away and work and save as he had and they wouldn't be obliged to beg. These words of advice coupled with the pleasing epithet of "lazy beggar" were followed by something more material in the form of a boot-jack if they showed any inclination to argue the thing.

"A misanthrope," said his genteel neighbors. "A mean old thing," said the other kind.

Children coming home late would leave the road and take a long way across the field rather than meet the old man as he came in from some solitary ramble. His orchards and fields were safe from all intrusion, for not even the most reckless, ne'er-do-well lad, had the courage to scale a wall or cut his way through a hedge.

The Dr. had a way of turning up at odd times and when least expected, which coupled with his manners and Mose's stories, caused the boys to look upon him with a kind of superstitious awe, which must have pleased the Dr., for one urchin declared that he had seen him at such a time turn off and chuckle.

Way up in a garret at the Dr.'s house, among old broken trunks, sofas, cobwebs and dust hung a picture with its face always turned to the wall; a full length portrait of a young man, tall and slim, with tapering waist and pointed shoes; something that bespoke the parlor elegant written all over him; a smile in the blue eyes and on the handsome, beardless lips, the light touching the way hair, the stamp of a bright, happy nature over the face. That's not the Dr., the miserable, hard man down stairs; no it isn't but it used to be.

It was very like the young Dr. Cligney, who had just received his diploma from the University and was the darling of society in B—, but not like the one who sat before his low fire down stairs musing in a solitary way; the fire so low and room so dark with shadows of coming night you could scarcely see him.

Presently Stephens came in bringing a lamp which she set on a table, then silently began laying the table for one. This finished she brought in a tempting, hot supper, took her place behind the chair she had placed and said laconically, "supper, master."

Dr. Cligney took his seat at the table and ate his supper in silence, and in silence the woman waited on him. She was a rather large, strong, raw-boned woman, eight years older than her master. Her son had been valet to the young Dr. Cligney, and when he died Stephens had taken his place and had remained with the Dr. ever since. She was sincerely attached to him and perhaps was the only person who was.

"Has any one been here to day, Stephens?" asked the Dr., who had himself been absent.

"Mr. Green, the miller, came over this morning; they are building a church at C—and he wants you to help."

"What did you tell him?"

"That you were not at home; then he said that he would come to-morrow."

"Ah! that is right; always refer them to me; I'll answer them and be glad to do it too. If a man has skimped and saved a little money the world wants to show him how to spend it. A church, indeed! A place in which to act the hypocrite, and marry people when you had better hang them, before they wish to hang themselves. A church forsooth, I never go to church; I haven't been in one for twenty-five years, not since that occurred time."

He had finished his supper and was walking slowly up and down the room, his hands behind him. Stephens had taken his vacated chair at the table.

TESTIMONIALS.

For many years Dripping Springs has been a favorite summer resort. Its waters have always been remarkably efficient in their curative powers. The analysis recently made by James A. Flexner, shows it have one of the finest medicinal combinations ever found in a mineral spring. Especially is it recommended as a tonic and appetizer and for all forms of dyspepsia and general debility, and as a powerful alternative.

WM. M. DOORES, M. D., Crab Orchard, Ky.
B. RAMSEY, M. D., Garrard County, Ky.
C. T. SPILMAN, M. D., Paint Lick, Ky.

For fifteen years, myself and family have been visiting Dripping Springs during the summer, and have returned each time greatly improved in health. Its wonderful waters cured me of a severe case of dyspepsia. I pronounce it one of the finest mineral springs in the world.

D. R. MOORE, Shelby City, Ky.

Thirty years ago I was under the treatment of Dr. John Craig, Sr., of Standford, Kentucky, for very serious liver disease. By his advice I spent a season at Dripping Springs and returned home entirely cured, and it gives me pleasure to bear testimony to the efficiency of its wonderful waters.

J. W. NEWLAND, Garrard County, Ky.

Twice in my life I have gone to Dripping Springs in very poor health, and after a short stay each time, returned entirely cured.

R. M. ARGO, Paint Lick, Ky.

Mr. John Spring makes an affidavit that his photograph was used by a Utica newspaper in the production of a portrait of a noted murderer in Virginia, and Spring has sprung a libel suit on the editor, laying his damages at $1,500, which, under the circumstances, may be considered cheap.

FIGURES DON'T LIE.—The taxable property of Lincoln county including railroad property amounts to $5,847,714, according to the assessment of 1884, and the polls $3,403.

Tax on property at 20c.....	$11,695 00
On polls at $1 each.....	3,403 00
The income from turnpikes is about.....	1,000 00
Total.....	$16,098 00
Estimated loss for delinquency.....	$600 00
Cost of collection.....	$50 1,630 00
Net revenue for 1884.....	$14,418 00
Claims about.....	8,348 00
Amount carried to sinking fund about.....	6,100 00

The exact figures can be seen upon the tax books in the hands of Mr. J. N. Monette, the Sheriff. The amount carried to the sinking fund is perhaps a few dollars over $6,000. The assessment for 1885 will probably be a little greater than $5,847,714, and will be increased every year by the increase of wealth and population. It will be seen that we can safely count on carrying $6,000 to the sinking fund, and if the county attorney will be diligent in business, resisting unjust claims and increase of salaries, the amount carried to the sinking fund annually can be increased to $8,000. In any event there is no question about the present rate of taxation will yield in ten years in excess of necessary county expenses $60,000 and perhaps more. This will pay the amount asked for the railroad right-of-way with its interest and leave a large amount for other internal improvements.

No Cerilda, dear, the picture which appeared in the New Argus last Sunday is not the beautiful and accomplished managing editor of the Louisville Commercial, the great and only Dan O'Sullivan. He has no capillary substance upon the summit of his cranium, the place that such substance ought to vegetate, and was never known to wear a turn down collar. A pair of cuffs usually adorns his neck, hiding it from the vulgar view up to his ears, and a jaunty little plug hat, arranged so as to display an expansive forehead, make up the tout ensemble of the gentleman, who has won the title of the journalistic duke.

No HIGHER POLL TAX.—The railroad opponents are telling those upon whom they can oppose that if the question carries the poll tax, that is the tax upon the head, will be increased in all probability to $5. The acts of the last General Assembly, page 823, section 5, authorizing Lincoln county to aid the Chesapeake & Nashville railroad, give the lie to this, as it expressly says that the tax must be raised on real and personal property and not by poll tax. Some of those who have told the lie referred to have done so ignorantly, but the majority with designing intent.

We do not think the ferry letter that Jim Blackburn wrote at the beginning of the war, in which he stated that he intended to kill 40 Yankees for every child he had and wanted to swim his horse in Union blood, ought to have cut any figure in his application for Collector, as he was young and hot blooded 20 odd years ago, but he should not have been given the office on general principles. He is an over-bearing, self-important man, as was shown during his term as Secretary of State, besides we have had quite enough of the Blackburns.

Ex-Gov. GILBERT C. WATKINS, of Virginia, died Monday in New York City, in the 52d year of his age. He came to Virginia after the war and was elected Governor and by his conservative and mainly course did much to alleviate the distress of the dark days of reconstruction. All Virginians will love and respect his memory.

Mr. DePONT has sold his stock in the Louisville Commercial to Mr. Zick. Phelps as agent and it is said there will be a general shake up among the force. There are some extra good men on it and we would dislike to see them out of journalism even for a time.

—Cleveland has made his old law partner, Bissell, Collector of Customs at Buffalo.

—Hon. Bayless W. Hanna, recently appointed Minister to Persia, will be transferred to the Argentine Republic.

—Since it has become known that Hon. Jas. Blackburn will not be appointed Collector of the Seventh district of Kentucky, Gen. Jas. F. Robinson, former applicant has re-filed his application.

—Miss Martha Deback, a young lady, living with her parents near Rose Hill, Va., had a quarrel with her lover. She tied a heavy stone about her neck, jumped in Clinch river and was drowned.

—Maj. Elias D. Lawrence, Secretary and Superintendent of Latonia Jockey Club and well-known in Louisville and among horse men throughout the country, died at the Cincinnati Hospital of Bright's disease.

—It is bravely announced that R. B. Hayes, of Ohio, will serve as a grand juror at Toledo in June, but it is difficult to conceive of Hayes as a grand anything unless it may be a grandmother, though he is conceded to be great—for example, the great fraud of the nineteenth century.

—Gov. Knott, Auditor Hewitt and Treasurer Tate, of Kentucky, have negotiated in New York, the loan of $500,000, authorized by the last Legislature, practically the only debt against the State of Kentucky, at a rate which puts the credit of the Commonwealth far in advance of that of any other State west of the Alleghenies.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Mr. Adams, of Montgomery, Ala., is visiting his brother Squire L. B. Adams, at Hustonville. Judge T. W. Varnon was in Crab Orchard Wednesday looking after well—mum is the word.

—Trustees of schools please notice that elections for Trustees will be held in the various districts Saturday, June 6th, and put up notices accordingly. Census reports must be handed in immediately or they will fail to be acknowledged.

—A serio-comic accident occurred on the Rolling Fork on Tuesday. Dr. W. G. Drye and Terrentine, the insurance man, were making their professional rounds in a dog cart when the horse, getting a peep over the blinds and becoming disgusted with his retrospect of the vehicle or its occupants, ran away, spilling and severely bruising both gentlemen. After snatching the cart over a seven rail fence and running some three miles he was captured and horse, harness and cart found to be in good condition. Terrentine is responsible for the facts. He says both he and Drye held life policies from his company and hence no fatal injury was sustained.

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by Jno. B. Fish.

—The recent frosts injured the gardens a great deal, but the fruit does not seem to be hurt in the least.

—The assessor for this county has finished taking the lists and is now copying the same for the county clerk.

—Two more freight trains have been added to the number now running from Rowland south to Jellico. The amount of freight on this road seems to be on the increase all the time.

—The parties who have been selling whisky in this town have all compromised the cases against them by agreeing to give up their government license. Perhaps this is the best thing that could have been done under all the circumstances.

—Mrs. J. J. Williams and Mrs. Jack Adams, Jr., have been visiting Mrs. Georgia Jones, of Louisville, for several days. Robt. Joplin returned from Paris yesterday. M. J. Miller, F. L. Thompson and John W. Brown went to Louisville last night to witness the Derby race to day.

—There are two goat teams at this place which do all the hauling of goods from the depot for the merchants. John Williams has a pair weighing about 150 lbs., which have pulled 640 pounds of freight at one load. Egbert Smith has a pair of smaller goats which he is just beginning to break to work.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—Next Sunday is "show day" at the Fork church.

—Mr. E. W. Harris removed his stock of saddlery to the Palmer & Lavelle's store.

—A Lawn Party on the College grounds for the evening of June 31 will probably be given.

—A masked skating carnival was the attraction at the City Hall yesterday (Thursday) evening.

—The first spring chickens of the season were on the market Thursday and sold fast at $3 per dozen.

—Committees have been appointed in each of our wards and will see that everything is cleaned up well.

—Mr. David Wardlow and Miss Lizzie Phelps were married on Saturday last. Both the parties reside in this county.

—Nelson Adams, a son of Jones L. Adams, deceased, was taken to the Insane Asylum at Lexington Wednesday evening.

—Rev. J. L. Allen, of Danville, and Rev. W. B. Barnett will officiate at the Christian and Methodist churches respectively next Sunday.

—Mr. C. C. Stormes is removing his stock of goods to the store-room lately vacated by T. G. Stevens and will shortly begin tearing down his house on the corner of Danville st. preparatory to building a three story building on its site.

—The Eaglewood, Kanis, Chief says this about Mr. R. H. Batson, who recently went from this county to Kansas: "R. H. Batson and Mr. Gordon and son, capitalists of Wichita, are in the city buying business and residence property, upon which they will put up some substantial buildings."

—There is a crying need in Lancaster just now for dwelling houses. The demand exceeds the supply by a decided majority and if some of our monied men would build a few nice cottages they could be rented for sums that would yield a good per cent. on the money invested and would also prove a blessing to the many families who are crowded up in rooms too small to accommodate them.

—Mr. W. S. Watson, who left Lancaster a year ago to accept a position in a drug-house at Atlanta, Ga., is here visiting relatives. Master Jesse Sweeney and Mr. E. Sweeney are ill of typhoid fever. It is reliably stated that Mr. R. R. West will get a good position under Controller Durham. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Woodcock and Master Will Woodcock went to Louisville Tuesday. Col. J. H. Bruce is in Louisville. Col. Sam M. Burdett has gone to Altamont on business.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—John Cowan, a well-known colored man, died Wednesday night of pneumonia.

—The Clemens House has been thoroughly repainted, repapered and repaired and will remain in charge of that popular landlord, J. P. Thorell.

—Messrs. Geo. A. Singler, Ben. A. Van Schaick, D. Strouse and F. Selveraudt, of Philadelphia, were here Tuesday and Wednesday looking at H. C. Mock's fine assortment of Messenger Chief coats.

—A base ball club from Richmond will arrive some time Friday night and will play the Centre College Club Saturday at 3 o'clock. The game played last week between these two clubs was won by the Richmond boys.

—The Kentucky State Pharmaceutical Association is to meet here next week. The association will be formally entertained at Gilcher's Hotel. The meeting will be largely attended by pharmacists throughout the State.

—Col. C. E. Bowman authorizes your correspondent to announce that he declines the call made upon him to become a candidate for the democratic nomination for Representative in the next Legislature. He does this for various reasons a prominent one among them being that the call came too late.

—G. Paul Smith, the modern Proteus, held forth at the Opera House Monday and Tuesday nights to good sized audiences. His character impersonations were excellent and while his recitals may have been enjoyed by a portion of the audience another portion would much rather have been fishing than to have heard them.

—It is said that the heirs of the Fisher estate for whom about $50,000,000, are lying in a German Bank are greatly elated over the good prospect they have for getting hold on the shekels of their esteemed, lamented and deceased relative. A number of the heirs are citizens of Boyle county and an important link in the chain of evidence is said to have been completed by the deciphering of the inscription on the tombstone of Stephen Fisher, who was buried many years ago on a farm in the east end.

—A hard streak of luck has certainly overtaken Col. J. W. Guest, of this county. About a year ago a fine colt by Rebel out of a Lexington mare, which he had contracted to sell for a good price suddenly sickened and died. And Wednesday morning he received a dispatch from Lexington informing him that his fine 2-year-old filly by Imported Buckden out of Crescent by Imported Australian, was dead. He had sold this animal for $2,000 and went to Lexington Tuesday to deliver her; at 12 o'clock that day she was perfectly well but at 3 p.m. when the purchaser went to the stable to receive her she was found to be very sick. Three of the best veterinary practitioners of Lexington attended her and did all they could to relieve her, but she grew worse and died during the night.

—Mr. W. J. Lyle has returned from Washington. Workmen are engaged in painting the front of J. C. Masonheimer's grocery. The colors are bright and attractive and the appearance of the building will be very much improved by the change. Hon. M. J. Darham will start on his return to Washington Saturday at noon. Mr. J. W. Eglesman, heretofore engaged at horse training with Cecil Bros., will in a few days go to Nicholasville, having been employed by T. L. Crow, of that place. Judge Geo. Denny, of Lexington, on Wednesday sent to W. L. Roe, of this place, a promising 3-year-old Lyles-Wilkes mare to be trained. Mrs. H. E. Samuel and Mrs. A. R. McKee were in Stanford Monday, the guests of Mrs. R. C. Warren. The friends of Maj. J. P. McGorray, late of this place, now of New Mexico, are gratified to learn that he is to be appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the district embracing El Paso in that territory.

—A. T. Nunnally has bought about 12,000 lbs. of wool at 12 to 18 cents.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died, suddenly, at the residence of her brother, in Medicine Lodge, Kansas, Miss Sue Davis.

For the children of God there remaineth a rest; 'Tis a home prepared, supremely blest; By his own presence Swift was the summons, the message quickly was given That called to pass from earth to heaven Our beloved sister.

To those whose hearts are now liberated by the bereavement, words are empty. For the void only a loved memory can fill and thus must gather together the sweet recollections. To one sister particularly it was a severe stroke. She was the playmate of her childhood, the companion of her youth and in latter years a wise and faithful counselor; for her mature judgment, her genuine candor and especially her "charity that covereth a multitude of sins," one could with safety act upon her decisions. Though her extreme sensitiveness often gave the appearance of indifference, yet her warm heart was quickly touched and keenly alive to sympathy and love of peace made her a favorite with all who knew her.

DEAR SUE, Beside dear mother your body rests, Waiting the call of the glorious dawn, When soul and body united are blest, Enter the city the resurrection morn. May 14, 1885. J. Y. F.

GEO. O. BARNES.

The Beginning of an Interesting Letter from Him.

ALWAYS PRAISING THE LORD.

"PROSPECT POINT," LANDOUR, N. INDIANA, April 1st. 1885.

DEAR INTERIOR:—Yesterday, after writing my last, hasty communication, Will, Marie and I mounted 3 "dandies" and set out, not to hunt a house, but to find the house the dear LORD had selected for us. By the way, the difference between the definite and indefinite article, is the "secret of a happy life." So I and many others have found it.

We were not long in coming to the place. It is the bungalow crowning the very crest of this glorious range. Only one higher point in the Sanitarium. In an hour, after hastily inspecting its accommodations, we had engaged it and in 4 hours more were duly installed as proprietors for "the season."

The dear Bileys, whose great kindness we can never forget, insisted on lending us everything we needed, until we could supply ourselves from the bazar, or our own heavy baggage still coming up. The Russian imbroglio has so gutted the railways with all manner of impediments that there is no telling when our goods and chattels will arrive. To avoid the expense of "excess baggage" we shipped the bulk of our trunks by "freight," as we say in "the States;" or "luggage," as the Britons call it. Meanwhile we have enough with us to meet our every want, in the way of clothing, until the other shall arrive. But bedding, crockery and cooking utensils our dear friends let us for immediate use, with such lavish generosity, that we were enabled to go to house keeping immediately. The houses at the hill Sanitarium are generally rented "furnished," but that only means with chairs, tables, bedsteads and carpets. In some cases crockery is also included in the bargain, but not generally. Everything one needs, however, can be procured on very short notice, from the neighboring bazar. Just now, on reasonable terms, since the Russian difficulty has greatly thinned the hill stations and thrown the "balance of trade" decidedly in favor of the buyer.

The conformation of the Himalayas is uniform, but unique. First a low range of hills, not exceeding 2,000 feet, then a lovely valley of varying width, from ten to twenty five miles; then the second range, mounting to a height of seven to eight thousand feet; beyond which ragged or broken country for 50 or 60 miles and then the great summits, leaping to the very skies and crowned with everlasting snows. On the second range, the Sanitarium are built.

Our house commands a view, magnificent beyond description, of the snowy range on one hand and the beautiful valley of Deyrah on the other.

Many years ago, about the time I first visited India, Bayard Taylor, ubiquitous traveller as he was, standing on this very mountain top, was overwhelmed with the rare grandeur of the spectacle, and as the range of snow mountains burst, for the first time upon his sight, could only ejaculate, as he gazed: "Heavens and earth!" My old friend Woodside was with him then and indeed entertained him at "La Tibba," the Mission House, but an arrow's flight from "Prospect Point."

As we are here, very likely until the 1st of October, I want your readers to become familiar with the charming spot.

Imagine, then, magnificent spurs of mountains, clothed to the top with oaks and rhododendrons and studded with white villas and cottages, built with all the symmetry of undesigned, just where a fine view invites location. From Deyrah Dhoon, these residences straggling along the mountain's brow, seem clinging like pictures suspended on the wall, almost without support. I cannot decide yet, which is the lovelier; the mountain side from the Dhoon or the Dhoon from the mountain's top. Both are exquisite in their own way, and the eye does not weary to look at either, though hours pass in the contented calm that steals upon all the senses, as one gazes.

Mussoorie lies a little lower than Landour, but the two are practically one, and there is no gap to mark where the one ends and the other begins.

Handsome barracks for the men, and neat bungalows for the officers have been erected, where the government cares for her invalid soldiery and nurses them back to health.

[CONCLUDED IN OUR NEXT.]

WAYNESSBURG, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—L. G. Gooch has gone on a fishing expedition.—Raynolds & Curtis have moved their saw mill to this place, which will be very convenient to the parties.—D. W. Caldwell is erecting a large wood shop on the west side of the railroad.—F. P. Curtis bought of Urish Murphy a pair of work mules for which he paid $250.—Mrs. Dean Hays, nee Singleton, is visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.—E. B. Caldwell, Jr. and H. Edison have gone to Harrodsburg on business. E. S. Gooch sold a horse to W. G. Gooch, of Pulaski county, for $90.—F. S. Gooch has a brand-new boy at his house.—Col. Talbott, Maj. Rigney and Mr. John Miller spoke at the Masonic Hall on Monday last.—It is reported that household goods, consisting of kneading trays, sewing machines and other utensils, which are indispensable to the house hold, are in demand, young men being the purchasers.—The farmers are very busy planting corn when the weather is favorable.—The select school at this place will close about the first of June.—Mr. M. C. Reynolds cut his leg very badly but is getting along very well.

—MISS MAGGIE LEF SAUNDERS has gone to Danville on a visit.

—MR. H. J. McROBERTS and wife have gone to Harrodsburg.

—MR. J. S. JONES, of Mt. Sterling, has engaged as salesman for S. L. Powers & Co.

—MR. GEORGE BURTON has returned to the Mountains after a visit to his friends here.

—MRS. OPHELIA THOMPSON, of Louisville, is the guest of her brother, Col. W. G. Welch.

—DR. J. W. DICKINSON has gone to Williamsburg to practice his profession, dentistry.

—MR. ROWMAN SMITH, of McKinney, is to wed a Miss McKinney on the 20th, so rumor says.

—J. A. CARPENTER went down to his old home yesterday to see a long absent brother who had just returned.

—MRS. W. H. HIGGINS has returned from a visit to her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Higgins.

—MR. JOHN R. FARRIS left yesterday to join Mr. Morris Ferris in Texas and from thence will make a tour of New Mexico.

—MISS LENA BOYER has returned to her home in Alabama, after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Johnson, at Mr. F. M. Ansley's.

—MISS SALLIE PHILLIPS went down to Boyle Tuesday to attend the funeral of her aunt, Miss Lorinda Phillips, who died at the advanced age of 86.

—MRS. JAMES A. ROYSTON, Mrs. Charles Ballew and Mrs. Jos. Burnside, of Garrard, were the guests of Mrs. George H. Bruce, Mrs. J. W. Rout and others.

—MRS. M. C. SAULEY was called to McMinnville, Tenn., Tuesday night by a telegram informing her of the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Rowan.

—CAPT. GEORGE H. MCKINNEY could not obtain a leave of absence from his position at the Silver Creek Distillery but he sends the boys some mighty good advice as to the way they should vote.

LOCAL MATTERS.

BEST canned goods. T. R. Walton.

FRESH fish Saturday at S. S. Myers.

NEW goods received most every day at S. L. Powers & Co. and they are all sold at wonderful bargains too.

In my absence my son, Will, will contract with any one wishing brick or anything else in my line. Henry Baughman.

LINCOLN county got two little plums this week. Lilbourn Gooch was appointed postmaster at Gilberts Creek and James Roy at Kings Mountain.

We handle the best cultivator on the market. We have bought too many and for the next 30 days will close them out at cost. Bright & Curran.

THE Superior Court has affirmed the decision of the Lincoln Circuit Court giving Mr. E. B. Brazley the value of a mule killed by the Kentucky Central Railroad.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL has never advocated a proposition, which after being adopted did not turn out best for the county. We have studied the railroad question and can see nothing but benefits to be derived by the county if we shall invite it to come within our borders.

A CAT FISH weighing 154 lbs. and measuring 32 inches was caught out of Dudders' mill pond on Dix River by Rush Hiatt with a 10 cent hook. LATER.—Tim Lynn beat this record yesterday by bringing in another of 17 lbs., weight and 33 inches in length, caught in same river.

THERE are one or two mail messengers on the L. & N. that we are going to report directly to the Postmaster General. We can't afford to have incompetent republicans fill offices now, when so many competent democrats are waiting to fill their places. One carried a letter from Danville and another from Parksville for us and after keeping them till next day sent them by the K. C., reaching here Tuesday night, and such things are happening entirely too often.

BEAUTIFUL Flower Pots. T. R. Walton.

OUR last request is that you vote for the railroad.

STANFORD Creamery Butter at 30 cents at T. R. Walton's.

JUST received a car load of Guano, for fertilizing. Bright & Curran.

SEVEN thousand feet of white oak fencing lumber for sale by B. K. Wearen.

THE ladies of the Christian church are already preparing for their big supper to be spread Commencement night, Tuesday, June, 21.

AFTER Monday 18th, we will sell best coal (including Peacock and Jelico) at 11c delivered to customers in town and 10c on cars. Bright & Curran.

THERE was no trouble about adjusting the loss on Capt. Rochester's house. Mr. C. D. Thompson, of Harrodsburg, who adjusts for the London, Liverpool & Globe, never takes advantage of the losers.

THE STANFORD INTERIOR JOURNAL is making a reasonable yet brave fight for the Chesapeake & Nashville R. R. It seems strange that a county so rich and having such light taxes should be afraid of $25,000.—[Worcester Sun.]

SOME of the opponents of the railroad have made a most unmanly fight. When it was proven they had lied to the ignorant about the $5 poll tax they then went to work to make them believe that a rich man's blue grass land would not be taxed any higher than the poor man's knobs, and that the rate on both would be 40 cents per acre. The opponents, if they have a bad cause, should at least tell the truth.

ARBITRATORS fixed the damages of John A. Allen and W. G. Raney at $230, for the proposed widening of Main street. There are a score or more of people damaged. The town owes $2,000 in bonds and has less than a $100 in the treasury. Where is the money to come from to meet these damages? We will answer this and other questions when our columns are not so crowded.

HERE'S HOW IT IS:—Some of those opposing the railroad proposition claim to do so because they claim to be the poor man's friend. Now it is known that these same philanthropists have been clamoring for years for a decrease in the property tax and an increase of the poll tax. Names could be given. When the poor ask for bread give them not a stone. The building of the road will put bread into the mouths of hundreds of the laboring classes.

IT comes from the best of authority that the L. & N. railroad has issued not exactly an order but a request that its employees vote against the proposition to aid the Chesapeake & Nashville. They fear its competition and have thrown obstacles in its way. They know that another road means a reduction in freight charges and have fought the new enterprise from the start. Farmers and others interested in cheap transportation, is this in itself not enough to make you vote for the railroad?

SOME of the farmers give as a reason for opposing the railroad that it will make labor scarce and higher. Just so and it will make every article that they raise higher and create a market at home for it. Then too their argument is a nice one to use with the laboring men. It is the same as saying to them that we want to keep your wages down for all time and force you to either work at them or starve. Laboring men, white and colored, you will be untrue to yourselves if you fail to vote for the railroad.

THE views of successful business men on business affairs are always regarded with respect and we have thought it well to tell the people what Dr. J. B. Owsley, cashier of the Farmers Bank, a superior financier and capital business man, thinks of the railroad question. In an interview with him he said: "I am for the proposition as it now stands and look upon it as a plain matter of business. The road is bound to benefit us and in assisting its projectors in securing the right-of-way, we simply say to them, 'We are not only willing but anxious to have you build your proposed link which is to connect the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, through our county, but we will aid you in securing as near as possible a free right-of-way within our borders and show you every courtesy within our power.' As a matter of principle I am as strongly opposed as any body to giving money to railroads or any other corporation, but I do not consider this right-of-way a gift, but a cordial welcome to a great enterprise to come through our county, knowing that we are to be the gainers thereby."

WE hear that it is urged in Crab Orchard and other points not directly benefited by the road that they do not care to help Stanford. This is very narrow and illiberal. True Stanford will be greatly benefited but what helps her as a central point and as the county seat, helps the whole county. Then too there is no occasion for an ill feeling towards Stanford. Her citizens never fail to respond to calls for private aid to turnpikes, no matter where they run, and the corporation has frequently helped to make such roads by subscribing money out of the town treasury. Crab Orchard certainly has no right to feel ill toward Stanford, for no longer than last year, the citizens here assisted her in building the School House there, which is an honor to the town, some of them subscribing as much as $25. The railroad question is no sectional or political one and we believe every reasoning man will vote for it after reading the address, which we published in our last issue and which has been distributed in hand bill form all over the county.

THE Stanford Creamery is booming along making 50 pounds of splendid butter per day.

A big lot of shoes and slippers just opened at the Great Bargain Store. S. L. Powers & Co.

A MEMBER of the county court said to us that he was opposed to voting a tax on the people save for school purposes and yet this gentleman has voted to spend $14,000 of the people's money on Turnpikes without asking their consent whatever. We do not oppose his latter action, but we do like consistency.

MARRIAGES.

—Rev. A. J. Daugherty, of the Baptist church, upon whose venerable head the snows of 62 winters have fallen, took to his heart and home, on the 12th, Miss Nancy J. Wheeler, a lady of 23 summers. The ceremony was at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John R. Wheeler.

—Mr. Geo. W. Fields, formerly of this place, but now in prospering business at Bloomington, Ill., was married yesterday at the residence of the uncle of the bride, Mr. T. T. Davies, to Miss Annie Laurie Raney, a very handsome and accomplished young lady. Rev. F. S. Pollitt officiated. Shortly afterwards the bridal pair left for Bloomington, carrying the best wishes of many friends here.

RELIGIOUS.

—Rev. J. M. Bruce has returned and will fill his pulpit Sunday morning and at 3 p. m. will preach to the children.

—Rev. A. S. Moffett has received a telegram stating that Dr. Guerrant will be at Crab Orchard on Thursday evening, May 14th.

—Gen. Green Clay Smith, pastor of a Louisville Baptist church at Twenty-second and Walnut streets, has resigned because several of his members were too officious. They claimed that he was absent from his pulpit too often, that his wife did not belong to the church and so on.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—At the sale of thoroughbred horses in Lexington fifty five head brought $17,365, an average of $316.

—The spring meeting at Lexington closed Wednesday, Kilmeny, Katrina, Gold Dollar and Lady Wayward won the events. The meeting was a very successful one.

—At the annual sale of Elmendorf yearlings, 16 colts brought an average of $1,930; 22 fillies brought an average of $900. The grand total was $36,850; grand average, $650.

—But little is doing in cattle in Louisville. Very common is quoted at 2½ and best at 5.40. The hog market is strong and prospects fair at 4 to 4.60; sheep firm at 2½ to 4½.

—The sale of Runnymede yearlings took place Tuesday near Paris. The offerings were all the get of imported Billet and Hindoo. Twenty-three animals were sold for $19,460, an average of $846 per head.

HALLS GAP, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—A. T. Martin is building a fine residence opposite the church.

—Mr. David Terry celebrated last Tuesday with a genuine old-time "leg rolling."

—The young corn has an excellent appearance and the farmers report a better stand than they have seen for some length of time.

—Joa. Gerkey sold a three-year-old yoke of cattle to I. Surber for $70 and Wm. Boone bought a young mare from Jno. Cummings for $75.

—A nice social party at Mr. J. M. Martin's Monday night just added one more to the innumerable number of entertainments that have helped to make life pleasant and hasten the long winter evenings.

—The good templars will hold an open lodge at the Halls Gap church on the night of the 29th of May. The programme will consist of speeches, dialogues, selections, singing, &c. A lively time is anticipated and everybody is cordially invited to attend.

—Mrs. Jno. Bill, who was very ill at the time of our last report, is, we are glad to say, very much improved. R. F. Campbell and family have removed to Turnersville. Misses Jennie Baughman and Nanie Wood, of Boyle, spent last week with Misses Maggie and Laura Jones.

—The young men of the neighborhood have secured the services of a competent teacher of dramatic science and after the proper amount of training has been administered they will proceed to edify the public with one of the most laughable entertainments under the name of a minstrel show "that ever went a fishing."

—And now the news comes from "over the hills" that Harry Cortwright and Mike Floyd have taken each other for better or worse and exchanged vows of eternal fidelity. Thos. Terry and Geo. Moore acted as assistants for the worthy couple; the Rev. Twichely, recently from Germany, officiating. We wish them much happiness and sincerely hope that love's pure sunshine will ever brighten their pathway they have chosen.

The New York Sun says much of the fine comb honey exhibited in the glass boxes in New York City merely represents Yankee skill. The comb and the honey never saw bees. They were manufactured by human hands, the comb of paraffine or beeswax and the honey, which is also false, blown in by machinery. Another kind of honey which is put up in glass cups, with small pieces of comb in the centre, is made from cane sugar, glucose or syrup. We hope New York City will monopolize all of this class of honey.

In a recent publication, Rev. H. A. M. Henderson facetiously refers to the ugliness of a brother minister. The excruciating funniness of the paragraph is best appreciated on reading that Bro. Henderson's physiognomy itself is a striking compromise between a ham-sandwich and a cross cut saw.—[Glasgow Times.]

[Special Correspondence.]

St. Petersburg, April 29.—It looks more and more as if a trial of strength was to be between England and Russia. In this despot country government conclusions are not known to the whole populace an hour after they are made, but from what you correspondents have been able to gather, no thought of backing out of the contest with Great Britain has entered the mind of the White Czar or any of his subjects. In the face of a foreign foe, no people will be more united than the Russians. The most rabid Nihilist is Russian before all. He will fight for his country to the death, though he would blow the czar limb from limb with dynamite before breakfast on the day of battle. He loves Russia and hates despotism. It would amaze you to know how Nihilism has permeated the ranks of even the czar's regular army. It is estimated that nearly every fourth man among the officers is a revolutionist, with no small percent of the private soldiers. There is no telling how true this is, however. In fact, there is no telling with absolute certainty, anything that a Russian wishes to conceal. The preparations for war are carried on in silence, while Russia has been giving smooth answers to the British government. In diplomatic British bluntness is no match for Russian slyness. When it comes to a square fight, we shall see. But the feeling throughout Russia is undoubtedly

"ON TO HERAT."

It is no secret that the whole army is being made ready for fight. The fleet is to be equipped. Russia is negotiating to purchase steamships in the United States. The splendid Eighth corps are now making ready to move south, with a view to active service.

MAP OF AFGHANISTAN AND ADJACENT TERRITORIES.

The locality of the disputed boundary will appear from the map. At the probable scene of war, on the Afghanistan border, telegraph lines are being put up with the greatest rapidity. They are actually, at this writing, completed to within less than 300 miles of Herat. Preparations are nearly finished to build a railway through Fendj to Herat itself, in the very heart of the disputed territory. Engineers and laborers will immediately follow the troops.

RUSSIAN SOLDIER.

The war footing of Russia amounts to not quite 2,000,000 men. In time of peace the regular force is about 600,000—an immense army. A levy of two out of 500 serves to keep up the forces. For war time there are 2,775 guns.

THE RUSSIAN ARMY is superior to that which is generally supposed. The law of the empire is that every Russian subject is liable for military service for 3 years. But it is a matter of great pride that the troops shall be large and robust men. According to there are numerous wild tribes among Russian subjects that are exempt from serving as soldiers on account of being undersized. Some of the Russian regiments of big men are a splendid sight. They wear Astrakhan fur caps, heavy boots and long light brown overcoats.

The whole effective military force of the empire is nearly two million and a half of men. The emperor is commander-in-chief. Under him next are the war ministry. The service is divided into five branches.

There is more variety in the dress of Russian soldiers than perhaps that of any other army. More different colors are introduced into the uniform.

This is another of the varied types of Russian soldier. But the great pride and strength of the empire is in its cavalry. The hundreds of flying hussars from the half-savage tribes of Tartars and Turcomans are as effective as they are picturesque. They are born to the saddle. Gen. Rodenbough says: "In a war with England in Asia, the use of large bodies of cavalry, organized, instructed and equipped after the American is a sort of Sherman bummer, who takes very little pay from the government and mostly "finds himself," as you say in America. Although this is the case, he is about the best provided for soldier in the Russian army. Nothing comes amiss to him, and he lives off the enemy's country with the greatest ease. He has a black lance and a gray overcoat. Altogether, there are nearly 160,000 Cossacks in the Russian army. It is only when beyond the frontiers of their own country that they take any rations from government.

plan, must become the main feature. From the wonderful reforms instituted by Russia in her huge army of horsemen, which have put her before all other nations, not excepting Germany, we may expect to hear of wonderful mobility, stunning blows at the enemy's depots and the appropriation of choice portions under his nose; of stubborn contests with the Anglo-Indian infantry, the only weapon a Berdan rifle; of communication destroyed by high explosives, especially of the laying waste smiling Afghan valleys inexpedient to occupy—these are a few of the surprises to which we may be treated if Russia gets the chance."

The tactics of Gen. Sheridan in laying waste the valley of the James in the United States civil war will be repeated. The uniform of the Russian soldier is buttoned. His garments are fastened with hooks. He wears woolen or linen bandages about his feet instead of stockings. He wears a linen blouse, with cloth shoulder straps, and chambray trousers dyed red. The war strength of an army corps is 12,303 combatants, 10,750 horses and 108 guns. The active army is thus divided: Infantry, 708 battalions (192 regiments, 48 divisions); 35 batteries of riflemen; Cavalry: 56 regular regiments (4 cuirassiers, 2 Uhlans, 2 Hussars, 48 Dragoons); 29 regiments of Cossacks kept in time of peace, at 708 men (94 with sub-officers) per regiment. Artillery: 51 brigades, or 338 batteries of 8 guns each, 30 horse batteries of 6 INFRANTRY OF THE batteries with Cossack divisions.

DRAGON OF THE GUARD. The cavalry of the Russian cannot be excelled in the world. The empire has 15,000,000 horses available for military service. The Russians themselves believe their field artillery is equal to that of any other power, and their horse artillery superior.

RAILROAD AID QUESTION.

The Lincoln County Court at its April term, 1885, made an order submitting to the qualified voters of the county, at an election to be held in the several voting precincts of the county, on Saturday, May 16th, 1885, the following question:—

"Whether the county of Lincoln shall issue bonds to an amount not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars on the credit and responsibility of the whole county, to be expended in acquiring title to or the right of way over a strip of land through the county of Lincoln, beginning at or near Stanford or Richmond Junction and extending thence westwardly by or near to Hustonville to the Casey county line, upon the general width of not more than seventy-five feet, and such additional grounds as may be needed for that purpose and such land at Stanford as may be needed for depot buildings, machine shops, round houses, water supply and such other buildings and structures as may be needed to aid said railroad, and to permit the county to dispose of said property when so acquired to said Railroad Company upon such reasonable terms and in such manner as to compensation as may be agreed upon by said county, through its Commissioners, and said Railroad Company, as permitted by an Act of the General Assembly of Kentucky, entitled 'An Act to authorize Lincoln county to raise money to aid in the construction of a railroad through said county,' approved May 1, 1884."

The undersigned were appointed a committee by the Court and directed to have the above stated action of the Court published for the information of the voters of the county, and we have adopted this method of performing that duty.

His Loss was Her Gain. "Well, madam," said a fashionable physician to a wealthy lady patient, if you don't like my prescription, perhaps you had better try Parker's Tonic or some other quack stuff." "You don't mean it, Doctor," she answered, but your advice may be good for all that. Sometimes what you call 'quack stuff' is the best and most scientific medicine, after all." She got a bottle of Parker's Tonic and it cured her of neuralgia arising from disordered stomach and nerves. She told her friends and now they all keep a doctor at home in the form of Parker's Tonic.

STALLIONS FOR 1885. ST. MARTIN, Sire of Emma Manley, Bob Pate, Florentine, Doubt &c., &c., will make the season of 1885 at my stables near Lexington, Ky.

AT TWENTY DOLLARS. St. Martin is one of the most distinguished sons of Imp. Phœnon, winning good races over good horses at all distances, and a few of his colts on the turf in 1884 were all seen at the front. His son, Doubt, was one of the best 2-year-olds of the year. St. Martin is the highest type of a thoroughly bred horse, standing over 15½ hands high, splendidly proportioned, kind as a lamb and combines the best blood of England and America. By Imp. Phœnon, first dam Tokay, by Imp. Yorkshire; second dam Miss Martin, by Garrison's Zingone, (son of Sir Archy); third dam Gabriella by Sir Archy; fourth dam Calypso, by Belair; fifth dam (dam of Content) by Imp. Dore Devil; sixth dam Sime's Wildair; seventh dam Picadilla, by Batt & Macklin's Fernnought; eighth dam Godolphin; ninth dam by Imp. Hobnob; tenth dam by Imp. Jolly Ranger; eleventh dam by Imp. Valiant; twelfth dam by Tryst. Thus it is seen that his blood is enriched from the same fountain that was Lexington, the great race horse and greatest of sires, and Genevieve, Yorkshire and Phœnon renowned in the turf histories. I have put his services at the low figure to oblige my friends and neighbors and to justify breeders at a distance in sending to him, and would take a few good mares on the share. I will also stand at the same place my combined horse.

JOE ABDALLAH, And my Norman horse, PHIL SHERIDAN, $12.50 TO INSURE. Grass and feed furnished at reasonable rate, but no responsibility for accidents should any occur.

I also have for sale 17 yearling Mules and 15 yearling geldings. S. H. BAUGHMAN, Stanford, Ky.
